Aosta, via Brocherel 22. Irina apre come di consueto la porta dell’interno 11 per entrare a casa Baudo dove lavora come colf. All’interno c’è qualcosa che non va, in cucina sembra sia passato un tornado, la camera da letto irriconoscibile. La donna urla al ladro e fugge in strada. Poi la macabra scoperta: in una stanza Ester Baudo è sospesa al lampadario con un filo di nylon attorno al collo. A prima vista pare trattarsi di un suicidio, poi però qualcosa non quadra; in più sono scomparsi gli ori. Una rapina finita male? Oppure? Secondo caso per il controverso vicequestore Rocco Schiavone nella gelida Aosta. Un personaggio fuori dagli schemi: scontroso, irritabile, trasgressivo al limite del lecito, ma con un senso della giustizia tutto suo, Schiavone ignora le procedure pur di raggiungere il suo scopo. E nell’indagine segue un suo filo logico e va controcorrente, mette il naso nella vita di Ester Baudo, le amicizie, il matrimonio monotono con Patrizio, rappresentante di articoli sportivi, e arrivato a un passo dalla verità ne rimane lui stesso spiazzato.

Small towns can hide big secrets, but Rocco Schiavone will do whatever it takes to bring them into the light. The second novel in the internationally bestselling series from Italian crime maestro Antonio Manzini.

Una panoramica poetica dedicata alla visione che i maschi si fanno dell’amore, alla proiezione che ne hanno le femmine e all’amore per i luoghi triestini, palcoscenico naturale dei due primi tipi d’amore. Una raccolta di versi epigrammatici dal taglio audace e frizzante: da bere tutta d’un sorso. L'AUTRICE: FRANCESCA PARISI Nata a Trieste nel 1977, di formazione classica, Francesca Parisi si è laureata con una tesi sul pensiero antroposofico. Cresciuta nella “genesi dell’idea di Mitteleuro-pa”, ha vissuto il luogo del “Mito asburgico” quale osservatorio privilegiato della letteratura. Amante del cinema e della musica, veste in modo barocco, ma il suo carattere introspettivo nasconde un’anima selvaggia e fanciulla. Ha esordito nel mondo letterario con la raccolta poetica "La costola di Adamo", vincitrice del Premio Letterario Nemo 2008 nella sezione “Poesia”.

This book discusses femicide in Italy, and the cultural conversations that have resulted from feminist discourse on lethal violence against women entering the mainstream, by analyzing journalistic inquiries and literary works produced after 2012. In a global and national context where activism’s goals are mainly discursive this study deepens our understanding of the role played by written narratives in the critique of a public interest matter such as gender-based violence. The first part of the book is dedicated to the analysis of three journalistic inquiries published in book format that focus on one or more cases of femicide that happened on the Italian peninsula. The second section draws on the concept of feminist rewriting to propose the analysis of a heterogeneous body of literary texts that explore some of the most controversial and notorious femicide cases covered by previous journalistic, historical, or mythical narratives, before demonstrating the close connection between theoretical and narrative discourse within the analyzed texts. This is a fascinating case study contributing to global understandings of gender-based violence, which will be important for researchers in gender studies, sociology, and media studies.

This annotated enumerative bibliography lists all English-language translations of twentieth- and twenty-first-century Italian literature.

This study is devoted to the analysis of Italian idioms with either ordinary or support verbs (also called light verbs). The research focuses on the exhaustive description of idioms, and is based on their systematic classification according to the principles of the Lexicon-Grammar methodology developed by Maurice Gross (1975, 1979 and further). A thorough examination of the literature shows strong disagreement on the acceptability of some idiomatic constructions. For this reason, the Web was used as a corpus to verify judgments on the supposed ungrammatical constructions. This approach showed that idiomatic constructions which have always been considered ungrammatical are instead perfectly acceptable if contextualized. The results obtained include the following: passive is not a "special case" when it concerns idioms, and idiomatic constructions show the same complexity as non-idiomatic constructions.

Already an international hit, a sly, sizzling mystery—the first in a sensational crime series—set in the Italian Alps, reminiscent of the works of Andrea Camilleri, D. A. Mishani, Donna Leon, and Henning Mankell. Getting into serious trouble with the wrong people, deputy prefect of police Rocco Schiavone is exiled to Aosta, a small, touristy alpine town far from his beloved Rome. The sophisticated and crotchety Roman despises mountains, snow, and the provincial locals as much as he disdains his superiors and their petty rules. But he loves solving crimes. When a mangled body has been discovered on a ski run above Champoluc, Rocco immediately faces his first challenge—identifying the victim, a complex procedure complicated by his ignorance of the customs, dialect, and history of his new home. Proud and undaunted, Rocco makes his way among the ski runs, mountain huts, and aerial tramways, meeting ski instructors, Alpine guides, the hardworking, enigmatic folk of Aosta, and a few beautiful locals eager to give him a warm welcome. It won't be easy, this mountain life, especially with a corpse or two in the mix. But then there's nothing that makes Rocco feel more at home than an investigation. An insightful observer of human nature, Antonio Manzini writes with sly humor and a dash of irony, and introduces an irresistible hero—a fascinating blend of swagger, machismo, and vulnerability—in a colorful and atmospheric crime mystery series that is European crime fiction at its best.
