Memorable Tales About a Most Compelling Loser Alby, the main protagonist in Matt Sumell's "Making Nice" isn't someone you'd find mentioned favorably in the Bernie Taupin lyrics of an Elton John song; he's far from the admirable, blinded Vietnam War veteran named in "Daniel" or the saintly John Lennon in "Empty Garden". He's the annoying, irritating, compulsive teenaged punk you might remember from your adolescence; someone with absolutely no redeeming virtues, period.

Powells. Meet Alby, the heartbroken antihero at the center of Matt Sumell's ferocious, funny, and wrenching debut Making Nice. Fueled by heartache, fury, and the occasional pain pill from his mother's leftover stash, Alby is flailing wildly as he tries (and mostly fails) to cope with his mother's death. From his hometown on the Great South Bay to a sailboat in a Los Angeles marina, he stalks the perimeters of calamity: he punches his sister; gets drunk; picks fights; and spews insults ...

Making Nice. by Sumell, Matt. "In Matt Sumell's blazing, heartbreaking first book, our rage-filled hero Alby is flailing wildly against the world around him--he punches his sister (she deserved it), "unprotectos" broads (they deserved it and liked it), gets drunk and picks fights (all deserved), defends defenseless creatures both large and small and spews insults at children, slow drivers, lunch ladies, and every single surviving member of his family.

Making Nice: Sumell, Matt: Amazon.sg: Books

Sumell delivers "a naked rendering of a heart sorting through its broken pieces to survive.*" Making Nice is a powerful, full-steam-ahead ride that will keep you laughing even as you try to catch your breath; a new classic about love, loss, and the fine line between grappling through grief and fighting for (and with) the only family you've got.

□Making Nice on Apple Books

Sumell gets closer to the heart of loss than many writers.... Making Nice is a profane, angry screed of a novel, but Sumell's care when wielding Alby's brash voice shows a kind of skill focused on getting closest to his character's distress." --The Los Angeles Times "Making Nice by Matt Sumell got me through OSCAR preparation week.

Making Nice : Matt Sumell : 9781627790932

"Toast" appears in Making Nice, Sumell's first book, a collection of linked stories all told from Alby's perspective. He's a thirty-year-old having a hell of a time navigating the world since his mother died from cancer. Sumell's stories are pugnacious, figuratively and literally.
